

Polymorphous formulae of esterases and transferin of two perch (Perca fluviatilis L.) and roach (Rutilus rutilus L.) populations in the Piaseczno Reservoir (an inundated sulphur mine) and the Dobczyce Reservoir

Janusz STARMACH

Retired worker of the Karol Starmach Institute of Freshwater Biology, Polish Academy of Sciences, ul. Sławkowska 17, 31-016 Kraków, Poland
e-mail: starmach@iop.krakow.pl

Abstract - Polyacrylamide gel electrophoresis of the esterases and transferin in muscle of roach and perch from Reservoir Piaseczno and Reservoir Dobczyce was carried out. No differences were found between the investigated populations.

Key words: fish, lakes, genetics, electrophoresis.